Are you:

Looking for work?

Wanting to improve your skills to make you more employable?

Needing advice on where to start and how to progress?

Looking for a training course for employment?

In need of employment support because you have a health condition?

Cheshire West and Chester Council's Skills and Employment Service is here to provide all the support you need to find and keep a job.

Skills and Employment Hubs

This prospectus will tell you all about the employment support projects we run and the training courses we offer. Almost all our services are delivered out of Skills and Employment Hubs (previously called Work Zones), our four centres in Chester, Ellesmere Port, Northwich and Winsford. On the next page you can find full details of each Hub and how to contact us.

When you get in touch we will ask about your circumstances and suggest how you can get started. This could be an assessment of your maths, English and IT skills, a training course, developing your job searching skills, volunteering or taking part in one of the employment support projects listed in this booklet.

Most of our services and training courses are for adults aged 19 and over. Some are available to those aged 16 and over.

Tuition fees may apply but many of the courses - including basic maths and English - are free.

We are the largest provider of adult education in the borough. At any one time we work with over 1,000 people to improve their current job prospects or help support their child's education.

Find out how we can help you by contacting your local Skills and Employment Hub...

Our services

The following pages will give you an overview of what the Skills and Employment Service can offer you.

Because of government funding, each service is aimed at a slightly different age group. We have organised the information by putting the projects for the youngest age groups nearer the start and older age groups towards the end.

Employment Directions

If you or someone you know is struggling to find work or stay in work due to a physical or mental health condition, we can help.

What Employment Directions provides:

- An employment specialist who will discuss jobs that match your interests and skills
- A focus on paid employment – we start job-searching with you as soon as we can
- Employment that forms part of your treatment
- Personalised benefits advice to make sure you are better off once you are in work
- Once you are in work, individual support which has no time limit

Employment Directions is right for you if:

- You are aged 16 or over
- You have a diagnosed physical or mental health condition
- You are working and have been employed for at least 3 months
- You want to find paid work for more than 7 hours a week
- You are not receiving any other employment support or on another DWP programme

If you are interested in Employment Directions, you can ask your primary care health professional* to refer you or speak to your DWP work coach, school or college.

Employment Directions case study

Participant M

In 2023, I was unemployed and struggling with multiple long-term health conditions. These had caused me problems sustaining employment and keeping up a good level of wellness. My DWP Work Coach referred me to Employment Directions to receive support into employment.

With my allocated Employment Specialist I began tackling my barriers, addressing some of the issues I was facing on a day to day basis. We updated my CV, looked at job applications and worked through support tools like action plans and a vocational profile. I also created a 'thriving health plan' which helped me to set goals and visualise my future.

I was referred to relevant courses to improve my office skills and volunteered in an administrative position. Shortly afterwards I found work with a well-established local employer. I took advantage of in-work support, which allowed me to focus on my chosen path whilst still receiving help from my specialist. After the 26-week milestone I left the programme.

I am now permanently employed at the same organisation and am thriving in my work. I have recently been promoted to a new role in the direction of my chosen career. My confidence and self-esteem have improved and I have excellent relationships with my colleagues. I only access primary health care services occasionally for check-ups on conditions that can only be managed with my GP.

Employment Directions helped me to realise my potential and my self-worth. The support I received allowed me to explore options that I may never otherwise have looked at. My quality of life has dramatically improved, I have financial stability and I feel very excited for my future.

What patients have said about Employment Advisors in NHS Talking Therapies

"The whole experience enabled me to see through my negativity and come out the other end with renewed positivity about my future working life."

"My employment advisor was very understanding and professional and supported me to make changes in how I manage workloads and how to cope with management styles in work. This has prevented ongoing overload as I am able to say no to extra work."

"I have got back my confidence and happiness."

"I received the professional help which allowed me to go back to work. Without support from my employment advisor it would not have been possible. I appreciate the level of engagement, fantastic communication and knowledge. I strongly recommend the service for every person with long term mental health problems."

"My employment advisor has helped put me back on my feet having been made redundant. She's helped me with finding a new job and supported me through the interviews and starting a new role, growing my confidence and resilience along the way and I am truly grateful."

Participant K

I have struggled to find employment over the last 2 years. As a single mother it's been hard trying to find a job with hours that work for me. I have also had addiction issues.

Finding suitable employment was vital for me, mainly because it would benefit my child and me financially. More than this, it would also help me to establish a positive routine which would add structure to my life and give me a new purpose.

Since meeting my advisor at Via, he has helped me to understand the correct way to prepare and apply for jobs, and has created a new CV for me which helped massively.

I wasn't sure of the best way to conduct myself in an interview situation and how to explain the gaps in my employment. My advisor worked with me to find the best way to talk about my past situation and work history.

When I was offered an interview at a care home we practised interview questions and answers which I found very helpful. Having the support and someone believing in my ability has made me feel a lot more confident.

I was then offered the position of housekeeper at the care home. It is close to where I live and the employer has been very flexible regarding working hours. I'm glad I had the confidence to explain my childcare needs at the interview because the employer has adjusted my rota so my hours fit around my child.

I'm feeling very positive about the future now and it's reassuring to know that I can still be supported whilst in employment. I feel like my life is now back on the right path.

Fresh Start case study

Participant B

B struggled with traditional schooling due to mental health issues. Having recently finished her GCSEs B felt lost and unsure of her future.

B was referred to Fresh Start where the advisor began by conducting an assessment to understand B's unique needs and aspirations. She required support in key areas including job searching, interview technique, and self-confidence.

With guidance from her Fresh Start advisor, B created her CV and honed her job application skills. B took part in mock interviews to prepare her for real-world scenarios, helping her to feel more confident and composed.

To enhance her prospects, B enrolled in a work experience program run by Storyhouse. "The Agency" empowers young people to use creativity to make positive change in their community. This practical experience not only boosted B's skills but also helped her develop essential workplace know-how.

Throughout her journey, B's advisor remained a constant source of support, offering encouragement and practical advice. Together they identified and addressed the barriers that hindered progress, such as her anxiety and potential housing instability.

The support and guidance provided by Fresh Start resulted in B securing employment at a café, a significant milestone in her journey towards independence and self-sufficiency.

B's mother says:

"I just want to thank you so much for working with and helping B. She has come out of her shell and it's great to see. When she got the news to say she has the job - wow, she was beyond excited. This is a good start for her going forward and it's thanks to you!"

New Ground case study

Participant J

J started a Level 1 Baking and Patisserie qualification at Reaseheath College but left after a week as she felt the college was too big and overwhelming. J signed up for the New Ground programme with no long-term career goal, just wanting to become independent and live on her own in future. J is autistic and said she wanted to be “like everyone else”.

J was always prepared and ready to learn but her anxiety when meeting new people was a significant issue; she feels she can come across as ‘shy’ or ‘distant’. Her lack of self-belief was preventing further progress. Because her biggest barrier was with social interaction, J wanted to work in a small team. New Ground team members identified that she was very good at following instructions, had an excellent eye for detail and was capable of dealing with confidential records.

New Ground advisors matched her strengths with various jobs, exploring office vacancies as the most suitable next step on her journey.

Following some work to improve J's confidence and self-esteem, she attended an interview with West Cheshire Autism Hub. A month later J began her placement, initially working 1 day per week from home due to the pandemic. J's Job Coach reported that she was increasingly confident talking to other professionals independently. Feedback from the employer was positive and J was able to increase her working days.

Within 4 months J was offered a paid job as Personal Assistant to the Strategic Manager, a well-deserved reward after all her hard work on placement. J said that she was “hoping that it might happen but never really expected it”. J continues to develop new skills and grow in confidence.

Supported Employment

Supported Employment case study

Participant P

P was volunteering at a local charity shop. He loved interacting with customers and keeping shelves organised but unlike his friends and family, P wasn't getting paid for his hard work. This nagging feeling left him wanting more.

P has a learning disability, but that didn't deter him. Recognising P's desire for paid employment, his carers contacted Supported Employment. With our comprehensive support package - including crafting a stellar CV and interview coaching - we empowered P to shine. But the crucial aspect for P was the offer of in-work support – having someone by his side when he started a job.

We introduced P to a local retail store that was recruiting.

We explained P's talents and how we could ensure a smooth transition for both him and the employer. We even helped them tailor the interview process to highlight P's strengths. This innovative approach showcased P's talent and infectious enthusiasm, landing him the job.

Our job coach initially worked with P helping him to learn the job and integrate with the team, and ensuring everyone understood the best ways to support him. As P gained confidence, little further support was needed.

P's journey is a testament to the power of inclusion and tailored support. It's been a huge success for P, his employer, and everyone who gets to work alongside him.

Testimonials:

- Colleague - "He is a total joy to work with, he brightens up our day."
- Team leader – "P completes tasks really well; he is focussed and works hard. We wouldn't want to be without him. This has shown us that someone who has a learning disability makes a superb team member."
- P's mother – "Without doubt this has been one of the most beneficial things he has done. The main advantage has been meeting and being accepted by other people."
- P – "I love my job and my friends at work, I am brilliant at sorting out shelves and my aisle is always the best. I like being paid for my hard work like my friends."
